2 HELD IN SHOE STRIKE DISORDERS

First Outbreaks Occur in Bridgewater; the Lasters Join Big Walkout

Brockton, May 29.—For the first time since the shoe strike began, violence broke out today.

It occurred at Bridgewater, near the plant of the L. Q. White Shoe Company.

Frank Cunningham, an employe in the finishing department, was attacked by Frank Buloff, a striker, and beaten up. William Tunkun, another employe, was attacked by Adam Maculowicz, another striker.

Buloff and Maculowicz were arrested and arraigned in Brockton District Court, charged with assault and battery. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $200 bail each until Saturday.

LASTERS JOIN STRIKE

The shoe strike spread today when lasters in Rockland, Avon and Randolph walked out.

Workers in Middleboro are considering striking, according to information brought to President Joseph Lacouture of the new local union.

The number of employes out remained about the same today, although manufacturers and the strike leaders claimed increased strength.

The strikers issued a statement reiterating their determination to rid Brockton of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.

STRIKERS ISSUE DEFI

The statement, signed by President Lacouture and Edward H. Talbot, said: "We won't pay dues to any organization which serves only the manufacturer's purpose.

"We affirm that the so-called stamp contract is not ours, that it was forced upon us, that 9 9per cent. of the workers of Brockton didn't even know of its existence for twenty-five years.

"The contract was forced. Until the manufacturers recognize and acknowledge our just claims to our rights as human beings, the unemployment will continue."

BABES EAT POISON ON VACANT LOT

Find Bichloride of Mercury Tablets on Their Playground in Albany Street

The lives of many children have been endangered by persons carelessly throwing away boxes and vials of poisonous medicines in a vacant lot at Albany and Sharon streets, South End.

After receiving treatment at City Hospital, Eleanor de Mark, two and a half years, and Ruth, her baby sister aged sixteen months, children of Mrs. Tina de Mark of No. 47 Sharon street, are recovering from effects of bichloride of mercury poisoning.

Eleanor was playing on the lot when she found the poison tablets. She and Ruth stuffed them into their mouths, and Eleanor was chewing vigorously when her mother found her.

Three-year-old Harry Garland, son of Mrs. Phoebe Garland of No. 46 Sharon street, found a bottle of carbolic acid in the same place. Mrs. Joseph Carr of No. 59 Sharon street reported her children, Edith, nine, and Francis, seven, have often found medicines there, both poisonous and non-poisonous.

The lot is the playground for all the little children of the neighborhood.

The Carr children were instructed by their mothers to bring any medicine they found to her. At different times they brought a tube containing liquid, marked poison, a box of powders, also marked poison, and several boxes of pills.

Little Eleanor de Mark, her mouth blistering from the mercury, was being rushed to the hospital by her mother when she screamed that the baby had eaten some, too. Doctors at the hospital applied stomach pumps to both to save their lives.

WARRANTS FOR 4 "REDS"; TO BE DEPORTED AS ENEMIES

Chicago, May 29.—Deportation warrants for four alleged associates of William Z. Foster, head of the Trade Union Educational League, and one of the leaders of the Workers' Party of America, were issued.

The defendants, Philip Aaronberg and Norman Tellentyre of Chicago, and Alex Bail and Joseph Zack of New York, are charged with advocating the overthrow of the United States government by force of arms.

KIDNAPED 'COPPER' IS SILENT IN CAMBRIDGE AUTO MYSTERY

A mysterious motor car wreck engaged attention of Cambridge police today. A touring car registered to I. F. Cutter of No. 83 North Hancock street, Lexington, was found smashed in Massachusetts avenue, about 150 yards from the Charles River esplanade, with a "silent cop" itself.

The "silent cop" was stationed at the junction of the avenue and the esplanade road, near the Cambridge end of Harvard bridge. The police figure the car ran into the "silent cop," dragged it 150 yards, then quit

CAPTURED BANDIT LEADER CONFESSES MINT ROBBERY

Leavenworth, Kan., May 29.—Roy D. Sherrill, notorious bandit, and an escaped convict who was apprehended at McAlester, Okla., was declared today by officials of the Federal Prison here to have been the brains of the bandit gang which staged the robbery, a few months ago, of a Federal Reserve Bank truck in front of the government

"too fanciful to be believable."

Sherrill confessed when arrested following a train robbery in 1918 that he and fellow gangsters had plans for the robbery of the Denver mint. His statements at the time were regarded by officials as "too fanciful to be believeable."

Sherrill was serving forty years for train robbery.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE QUITS FIGHTING 'WETS' IN CHICAGO

Chicago, May 29.—The Chicago branch of the Anti-Saloon League has found the task of attempting to enforce the eighteenth amendment too great and will discontinue all local activities, save routine legislative work, E. J. Davis told trustees of the Chicago Church Federation in announcing his resignation as the League's superintendent in the Chicago district.

Mr. Davis said tentative plans were being made for him to head a new organization to be known as the Chicago Association for Better Government.

MISSING MINISTER SUICIDE

Lawrence, May 29.—The Rev. Asoudor Solokian, 34 years old, No. 394 Chestnut street, who disappeared on the eve of his wedding, committed suicide rather than face possible insanity.

This is the belief of Miss Mary Missisian, thirty years old, No. 613 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, who was to have been married to the Rev Mr. Solokian today.

According to Miss Missisian, a friend of the missing clergyman told him he was suffering from an incurable disease. Since then, she said, he has been subject to mental

KILLS MAN IN ROXBURY QUARREL

A blow on the jaw proved fatal to John Bell, forty-two years old, of Longwood avenue court, Roxbury. The police say he was attacked by Stephen Puleos, twenty-six years old, while attempting to hug Puleo's wife.

Puleo was arrested charged with manslaughter. His case was continued when he was arraigned today in Roxbury Court.

Bell died at the City Hospital from a fracture of the skull, suffered when he was knocked down.

According to the police, Bell called at the Puleo home at No. 34 Fandall street, Roxbury, and asked Mrs. Puleo to direct him to the home of Jake Bloom. As Mrs. Puleo stepped to the sidewalk to comply, the police say, Bell put his arms around her.

Mrs. Puleo's screams attracted her husband. Only one blow was struck.

tion, with the coal men and announced that he was preparing a statement on the fuel situation which would be issued for publication on Thursday. He refrained from making any comment until he had completed his examination.

Warnings of a coal shortage this Summer broadcast by coal barons came as a complete surprise to consumers, so soon after an advertising campaign in which local firms announced they were able to fill all orders promptly.

The retailers assured the public that removal of restrictions by the Interstate Commerce Commission cleared the way for liberal and immediate deliveries. Retailers, big and little, urged customers to lay in their winter supply at once while conditions were favorable.

BLAMED RED TAPE

They made the public believe by innuendo at last, that much of the fuel evil had been imposed by regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission coupled with adverse conditions of winter.

They made it appear that coal dealers had been hampered by red tape.

That was early in April and now within a few weeks they are howling about a Summer fuel famine because consumers followed their advice and laid in home supplies.

Present warnings by coal men are looked upon as propaganda, camouflage and trade politics by experts familiar with the fuel situation in Greater Boston and New England at large.

Students of local fuel conditions charged that the coal men were laying wires for further mulcting of the public next winter.

ARTIFICIAL AND INSPIRED.

They said sufficient time hadn't elasped to permit shipments between the famine days of Winter and Spring advertisements that there was coal aplenty and that the present agitation of Summer famine due to alleged hoarding by householders is equally artificial and inspired.

CONVICT FLOGGER LIKELY TO BE FREE

Tallahassee, Fla., May 28.—The State is likely to lose the case against Walter Higginbotham, convict boss, charged with the murder of Martin Tabert of North Dakota, according to J. R. The House recently voted down a bill to appropriate $2,500 for the trial.

Three men were annoying customers in the lunch room at Warren avenue and Dudley street today. The manager called Crowley, who ordered the men to leave.

Two went out, but the third man, Crowley says, started to fight. Thereupon the officer put him out the door.

When the patrolman reached the street he was struck in the face, so he drew his club to subdue Crowley. The latter wrenched the stick from O'Meara's hands, but the policeman regained it and hit Crowley over the head.

Meanwhile more than 100 men gathered, and as O'Meara started to the police box with his prisoner the mob closed in. Someone tripped O'Meara as Crowley broke loose.

While the patrolman was lying on the walk he was kicked in the jaw and the ribs. Several hit him with their fists.

Lashing out with both feet and hands, O'Meara managed to regain his feet and drew his pistol. Waving this in a circle he forced the crowd back, singled Crowley from the throng and marched him to the police box.

Crowley, who is reported as being from South Boston, will later be arraigned in Roxbury court on charges of assault on an officer and intoxication. He is now at City Hospital.

QUINCY MAYOR THREATENED BY DANA

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission has adruptly stopped the pay of thirteen men and two women employes of the city of Quincy.

This summary action was taken on the ground that they were on the city payroll in defiance of civil service regulations.

Payson Dana, State Commissioner of Civil Service, made a flat threat of criminal prosecution today if these alleged illegal practices in Quincy did not cease. He said:

DANA'S ULTIMATUM.

"Unless the wholesale practice of illegal employment of city employes by city officials of Quincy comes to a stop at once, I shall ask Attorney-General Jay R. Benton to begin criminal prosecution, from Mayor Gustave B. Bates down."

The penalty for illegal employment of city employes range from fines of $100 to $1,000 on the employing officials or department heads.

Commissioner Dana said that he and his investigators have discovered numerous cases of illegal employment under the administration of Mayor Bates. He cited illustrations of this alleged practice.

The two women employes whose pay has been stopped by Mr. Dana's order are Mrs. Ada B. Griswold, clerk in the building, cemetery and wires department at $1200 a year, and Mrs. Hattiemay Thomas, employed in the assessing department. Mr. Dana said that Mrs. Griswold was illegally employed. Details were not given.

Mrs. Hattiemay Thomas, Mr. Dana says, was employed in the assessing department several years ago and was reappointed January 6, 1923, by Mayor Bates at $1,200 a year.

When Mr. Dana discovered her name on the payroll the city authorities asked permission to reinstate her without civil service examination. Mr. Dana ordered her pay stopped May 4.

FEGAN CONTRADICTED.

At that time there was an eligible civil service list of clerks which Mr. Dana submitted to Assessor Fegan. He told Mr. Dana the persons certified for appointment were not available but Secretary John Gilbert of the commission informed Mr. Dana that all those certified would like the place.

Mayor Bates then claimed the candidates were not qualified. He asked for a new group of names. Mr. Dana refused, saying those already certified has passed the test for that position. Three days later Assessor Fegan asked that Mrs. Thomas be allowed employment as temporary clerk until the next examination. This request was denied.

The pay of George H. Eggleton as a "consulting engineer at $80 a week and expenses," was stopped on the ground that his name was not taken from the civil service list.

EXCEEDED LIMIT.

Captain John J. Fulcroth and Lieutenant John L. O'Neill were appointed acting-assistant engineers in the Fire Department. Mr. Dana said they could serve thirty days. The time of O'Neil has exceeded the limit.

Edwin F. Smith was certified by the civil service as a bacteriologist at $900 a year, but his name was found on the payroll as a physician at $1,200.

Foremen James F. Donovan and Daniel J. O'Connell, public works department, were listed as acting-superintendents without having been certified for such responsibilities.

Other pay stoppages were: William O'Brien, clerk in public works department; Harry Cohen, highway department laborer at $4.50 a day; James O'Brien, chauffeur at $4 a day.

What Their Heads Need. Munsey's Three Forties. The Ice Is Coming. Lion and Fawn.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

LOOK AROUND. You will see 1,000 young men, each with a new straw hat. How many of those young men have bought a new book recently? Thirty buy a serious book. Perhaps, for a thousand that buy a straw hat. The dear little head must have a new hat. It can get along without books.

SIR ARTHUR KEITH, British scientist, back from studying gorillas and gibbons in Africa, says the brains of human beings are used only to one-half capacity.

"Most of us have more brains than we know what to do with."

The neglected brain crop is the greatest loss in modern civilization, but the straw hat crop is doing well.

FRANK MUNSEY, who is to newspapers what Herod was to babies, has bought the New York Globe. If you love that little paper, tremble. Its days probably are numbered. Sometimes Mr. Munsey keeps a paper for a while, then kills it.

Sometimes he builds a paper up to gigantic successes. About the Globe he is uncertain. He may kill it, combining it with the Evening Sun. He may spare it for a while.

Just now he is saying "Eeney meeney miney mo" to decide its fate.

WHETHER HE makes a thing go magnificently, or slaughters it because it refuses to go at all, Munsey defies criticism, for he is able to tell his life history in six words:

"Forty years, forty failures, forty millions."

He has worked the forty years and more; he has had the forty failures and more; he has got the forty millions and more. The last statement answers everything in this land of the free.

A NEW glacial period is coming. The MacMillan expedition in the Arctic will measure the ice and tell how fast it is creeping down to spread over half the fertile fields of Europe and the United States—a deadly blanket of cold—and drive us towards the equator.

You needn't hurry to sell your real estate, like those who gave their land away in the year 1000, when they thought the world was ending. That ice won't come for many a day. We'll all be beyond the reach of cold, at least, before it gets here.

But it is coming to repeat the visits that have marked the world's ancient days, with the swinging of the poles.

Some time, when men become real rulers of this earth, they will use the heat of the equator to keep the ice in its place, and the cold from the north to temper equatorial heat. But this is still beyond us. We're only squatters, no earth conquerors.

POLITICAL STRATEGISTS hope to solve the perplexed political situation by persuading Hiram Johnson to run for Republican Vice-President, and Henry Ford, Vice-President, Democratic.

It's a nice program. You could solve the problem of the jungle if the lion would walk meekly behind the bleating fawn, and the black leopard peacefully follow the little lamb. But those wild animals don't always follow the program you map out for them.

IN GERMANY there is a great revival of enthusiasm over Frederick the Great. Voltaire, who lived with Frederick at Potsdam, and tried, without success, to teach Frederick to pronounce French correctly, shares the honors with the great Prussian king.

DE VALERA OFFICIALLY notifies the army of the Irish Republic that the fight is over. They are beaten and must give in. After, the army's chief of staff, confirms the news, and says: "We are beaten."

This does not necessarily mean peace. As long as there is one dissatisfied Irishman, there is apt to be one Irishman fighting. The announcement, however, will probably mean for the Free State a chance to show what it can do. That is what the great majority of Irishmen and women want.

HE'S SCION OF JOHN D.'S PARTNER

Mrs. Vandergrift Charges Misconduct; He Sues for $125,000

New York, May 29.—John M. Vandergrift, grandson of one of the founders of the Standard Oil Company, who married his stepmother after his father died, eight years ago, has been made a defendant in a suit for divorce filed here.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Isbell M. Vandergrift, asks an absolute divorce, making specific allegations of misconduct. The case already has been heard by Louis W. Stotesbury, a referee, whose report has been submitted to the Supreme Court.

Vandergrift, a member of the Lambs' Club, is described as "of the theatrical profession." He is a grandson of Jacob J. Vandergrift, formerly of Pittsburgh. When his father died at Pittsburgh in 1915 he married his stepmother, who was twelve years his senior.

Since then a suit, still pending, was brought by Vandergrift over $125,000 he alleges he had turned over to his wife from his grandfather's estate, and a referee was appointed to administer the fund while the case was in the courts.

Both parties to the divorce action live in this city.

1,000 HOMELESS IN FLOOD IN OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 29.—With the damage from the overflow of the North Canadian River already running into hundreds of thousands of dollars, the crisis is expected to be reached today when a two foot rise reported upstream arrives here.

Hundreds of houses and stores in the Southern bottoms have been washed away or flooded, and more than 1,000 persons are homeless.

An unknown hero, about 45 years old, garbed in a bathing suit, swam out in the swirling waters to a flooded house to make sure all occupants had escaped. He was caught in the current, drawn under the walls of the building and drowned.

About 100 refugees were cared for at the City Auditorium. More than 100 girls were housed by the Salvation Army.

ACTRESS WANTS FARRAR TO PAY MILLION

New York, May 29.—Stella Adler Larrimore, actress, named by Geraldine Farrar in her suit for absolute divorce from Lou Tellegen, will bring suit for $1,000,000 against Miss Farrar for alleged defamation of character.

This announcement comes with the withdrawal by Miss Farrar of her charges of misconduct of Tellegen with Miss Larrimore, during the hearings being conducted before Supreme Court Referee Mahoney.

In addition to seeking damages Miss Larrimore plans to demand a criminal investigation to determine if there was wilful perjury in connection with the testimony of detectives supporting the charge of misconduct with Tellegen.

Supreme Court Justice Lehman denied Miss Larrimore's request for trial by jury on the ground that Miss Farrar could not be compelled to press charges she had withdrawn. He declared he was convinced the charges against Miss Larrimore were untrue.

Miss Farrar was assessed full costs by the referee.

WILL PUSH FIGHT.

In a formal statement Miss Larrimore said: "This has ceased to be a personal fight—I have been fighting for a principle. This matter is by no means closed. I shall see it through to the end.

"My contention is that if I am innocent and the testimony given false," she asserted, "then the persons who gave that testimony are guilty of a very serious offence and should be dealt with according to law, and the plaintiff is guilty of making a very serious charge without proper investigation and justification, and should in some way be penalized."

AMERICAN GIRLS USED 180,143,136 HAIR NETS LAST YEAR

Washington, May 29.—American girls last year used 180,143,136 nets made out of Chinese pigtails to hold in their hair.

The net makers, practically all of whom are located in Chefoo, China, collected $3,319,322 for supplying the product, the Commerce Department estimated today, and the tremendous increase in the use of the devices was indicated by the fact that nine years ago, in 1914, the total value of hair nets exported from Chefoo was only $719.

GRAVEYARD ASSAULT ON WIDOW

Newburyport, May 29.—City Councillor Matthew T. Twomey of Ward 5, who is married, and Raymond W. Hatch were accused in lower court today of having attacked Mrs. Annie Francoeur Donahue, a 36-year-old widow of this city, in a cemetery in Salisbury with felonious intent.

The case was continued to June 5 at request of counsel. The defendants, both pleading not guilty, were released in $1,000 bail each.

Councillor Twomey, who has been a member of the city government a few years is one of the best known men in the city.

ON TAXI RIDE.

The attack is alleged to have taken place Sunday, May 20, after Mrs. Donahue had accompanied the men on a taxi ride to Salisbury.

The case is being handled by the Salisbury police. Mrs. Donahue made complaint May 22and Twomey and Hatch were arrested.

Mrs. Donahue received a number of severe bruises and required medical care later according to report received by the Newburyport police.

The local police understand that the taxi was driven by a chauffeur, not by either of the defendants.

PROBE DEATH OF 2 WOMEN; SAY 'STARVED' BY HOSPITAL

Chicago, May 29.—Officials today began investigation into the deaths of two women recently discharged from a private sanitarium. One of the women died from starvation, according to the death certificate.

John W. Folmer, an inspector, said relatives of the women told him that while patients at the sanitarium the victims were given the "water cure" and "dieted" until they were skeletons.

The women were given no food for weeks at a time, it was charged. They were Mrs. Anna Kolar and Miss Gertrude Kissgen, twenty-nine, a stenographer.

They admitted, the police say, that after seeing a movie train wreck, they put an iron plate on the track near Westbury. When that was removed by a vigilant track-walker, they wedged a bolt into the switch, but the track-walker found that, too.

GUARD MRS. PHILLIPS AT DOCK

"Hammer Slayer" Is Allowed Freedom of Ship on Voyage From Honduras

Aboard Steamship Copan, En-route from Puerto Cortez, Honduras to New Orleans, La., May 29 (I. N. S.)—As the sun rose to brighten the land of the free today, Clara Phillips, notorious "Hammer slayer" of California, nervously paced the decks of the Copan, looking intently at her native land—the land that spells imprisonment for life to her unless the unforseen happens.

The New Orleans fruit boat which let Porto Cortez Saturday arrived at Quarantine station shortly before dawn and after inspection sailed up the Mississippi to New Orleans. From there the Tiger woman of the Pacific Coast will be rushed to California, the scene of her crime, where a prison cell awaits her return.

SENSATIONAL STATEMENT

Mrs. Phillips declared that when she reaches there a sensational statement will be made, a statement which will reveal the "true hammer murderess" and establish beyond a doubt her innocence. She also insinuated that she will disclose the identity of the accomplices who aided her in making one of the most sensational jail breaks in the history of America.

Since leaving Puerto Cortez she has been persistent in maintaining her innocence and declared that "the world will know her true story before long."

The captured woman, although admitted to be one of the cleverest and most dangerous prisoners officials have dealt with in many a day, was allowed free deck privileges from the little Honduras port. There was no violence during the entire voyage.

PLACED IN CONFINEMENT.

"She was in good spirits and excellent health all the way," declared Captain Larsen of the Copan today. "Never looked like a woman who is returning to a life term imprisonment."

As the boat sailed up the river and the shores of her home land again enveloped her, the woman slayer was removed to a place of confinement. Officials admit that there is a "ring" that will "go the limit" in order to make her escape possible and every precaution is being made to prevent another break for freedom.

When the vessel docked at New Orleans, a cordon of officers was on hand to hold back the large crowd of curious spectators while she was spirited away to a secret confinement until the first train left for Los Angeles.

It was feared that a desperate attempt might be made to free her while in New Orleans. The same precautions will be made by Under Sheriff Buccalo of Los Angeles until he and his prisoner reach their destination.

Mrs. Phillips has hinted at love complications which led to the crime of which she has been convicted, but refused to divulge details until she makes her promised statement that is "to shock the world." It is rumored that the story will "involve celebrities of more than one nation."

2d Slater Trustee to Quit

MRS. HORATIO N. SLATER

Frederick J. Bradlee, Boston banker, and sole remaining trustee of the $7,000,000 estate of Mrs. Horatio N. Slater, is willing to resign. He made the announcement on returning to his home at No. 211 Beacon street after an extended absence from Boston.

Thomas L. Walsh, counsel for Mrs. Slater, mailed an order of service to Mr. Bradlee, demanding his presence in Worcester Probate Court, where Mrs. Slater brought suit to force the resignation of Mr. Bradlee and Mrs. James E. Sweeney, known also as Miss Aimee A. Jones, trustees of the estate.

Mrs. Sweeney resigned soon after court action was instituted. Mr. Bradlee had refused to resign, but denied that he had made an effort to evade process servers. Business, he said, had taken him from town.

He further said he was not only willing but anxious to resign the trusteeship, but that because of one clause in the trust agreement, it seemed best to him that the Worcester Probate Court adjudicate the matter, for the protection of both Mrs. Slater and the trustees.

BELIEVE 7 POISONED; 2 ARRESTS

Michigan Woman and Boarder Accused in Child's Death; Face New Charges

Lansing, Mich., May 29.—While Mrs. Emma Kopple is awaiting trial here in connection with the death by poisoning of her twelve-year-old foster son, Harry, police are seeking to learn the cause of at least seven deaths in her household within a decade.

So far, the following deaths have been revealed:

A Coldwater State School boy being boarded at the Kopple home.

Mrs. Koppie's nine-day-old baby, Rose.

Pearly Klaus, her niece.

A little boy, unnamed, also being boarded.

A child known only as "Shaw."

A child of Trougette Hedrick's.

Mrs. Kopple is said to have acted as housekeeper at the home of Hedrick in Beckerville.

DENIES ANY MYSTERY.

Mrs. Kopple has admitted the deaths of the first four, but denies all knowledge of any child named "Shaw" or any child of "Trougette Hedrick's." No child died at the Hedrick home while she was there, she said.

That there was any mystery in connection with these deaths, Mrs. Kopple vigorously denies. She says the Coldwater schoolboy was buried a few hours after his death, because he died of diphtheria.

Two of her three children by Higgins, she said, died at birth. Scarlet fever took the third.

Revelation of her previous marriage was the new development today. She is said to have told police that Higgins left her, later was granted a divorce and married again.

BOARDER ALSO HELD

With Jim Shannon, a boarder at the Kopple home here, she is held in connection with the death of her foster child. She admitted that Shannon gave the boy "white powders to settle his stomach" when the child became ill.

Mrs. Kopple admitted that she formerly used a drug.

BABY WAS NEAR DEATH AS RESULT OF BILL HART LOVE HOAX

MOTHER'S IRE WAS AROUSED

But She Decided Miss MacCauley Had Paid Penalty for Trick

Bill Hart, the actor, was not the only one who suffered as the result of Elizabeth MacCaulley's charge that Hart was the father of her child.

Robert John Webb, the little boy used by Miss MacCaulley in her effort to involve Hart in a romantic contretemps, almost died as the result of the strange game in which he was an involuntary pawn.

Mrs. Lucy Webb Purdge, the real mother of the boy, said:

"When my baby went to California with Miss MacCaulley he was perfectly well. She kept him there four months. When she returned him to me in Boston he was desperately ill with water on the brain.

"It was necessary to place him in a hospital. Miss MacCaulley told me her physician diagnosed the case as water on the brain. But when I had Bobby examined by my own physician, he told me my child suffered from a severe bruise on the head, received while he was in the care of Miss MacCaulley.

"Naturally I was wild. I wanted to sue her. But now I realize the suffering she has gone through and the trouble she is in, I have decided not to take any legal action. She has suffered enough.

"I was on the point of taking legal steps, though, when I read in the Hearst papers the manner in which Miss MacCaulley was attempting to foist Bobby on Mr. Hart as his child. I was furious."

During the first year of his life, the infant in the Hart-MacCaulley case was taken about from place to place, traveling from one house to another. In one year he was under the care of eight separate women.

In his first year he journeyed all over the State of Massachusetts. In his second he toured the country from coast to coast. His mother claims that Miss MacCaulley even took him to Mexico.

FEDERAL PROBE FACES HOUSE OF DAVID

Benton Harbor, Mich., May 29.—Rumors that the Federal government plans to investigate the House of David colony here are given official substantiation in the person of several operatives of the Department of Justice.

These agents are examining the colony's mail, obtaining the names of possible witnesses and seeking information about cult marriages and divorces.

One of the matters under investigation, it is reported, is the charge that on several occasions Benjamin Purnell, missing cult leader, was accompanied to Chicago by girls from the colony.

The agents also are said to be investigating the possibility of prosecuting the cult heads on charges of using the mails to defraud. It is declared the prospects of the colony contained promises impossible of fulfillment, such as the claim that on several occasions Benjamin would find immortality on earth.

It is said the British government has asked a government inquiry because some of its subjects had left British possessions to enroll under the banner of Purnell.

LIVELY WIDOW, 80, OUSTS HER GUARDIAN

Providence, May 29.—When Mrs. Harriet S. McDonald, lively 80-year-old widow of Henry McDonald, eats ice cream and sporting links, united for her husband's tombstone, she made a friendship that led to her appearance in Superior Court to contest a petition for the appointment of a guardian and the accounting of the handling of a $15,000 fund by Charles N. Fisher, Jr., who is in the tombstone business.

Shortly after McDonald's death his wife went to see Fisher about a monument. Since then they have been the "best of friends" and, according to Fisher's testimony, he will be the chief beneficiary of her will.

Relatives objected. They obtained the appointment of Henry M. Boss, Jr., as guardian but the widow appealed and made such a vigorous protest that Judge Barrows discharged Boss and refused to compel Fisher to make accounting.

Among the witnesses was a man who claimed he overheard at the McDonald home with the widow and Fisher and who testified that he had sought her aid on Fisher's behalf. This man declared she had addressed him as "dearest" and "dear Charlie."

Fisher denied these allegations and asserted that if Mrs. McDonald had called him "dear Charlie" that it was a part of her "natural light heartedness."

OFEFRS ZITA USE OF BIG GAME PRESERVE

PHONE GIRLS TO 'GO THROUGH' ON STRIKE

Telephone operators in Boston are "going through" with their plans for a strike, according to the statement today by an official of the Hub local.

Friday night the Boston local will meet in Chipman Hall, Tremont Temple, to vote on the question of having a strike poll, and it is predicted the girls will respond practically one hundred per cent in the affirmative.

"The girls are strong for the seven-hour day, and for the increase in wages," stated this official. "Sentiment is growing stronger each day for a strike, if other methods fail.

"The girls do not want to strike if there is any other way by which they can obtain their demands. But, if the company maintains its present attitude, we will go through to the limit."

NO PREPARATIONS.

Telephone company officials said today no steps as yet had been taken to meet a strike. It was admitted it would be impossible to fill the places of the girls who go out, in view of the fact that it takes four weeks to develop an "apprentice" operator.

"We will not cross any bridges until we come to them," was the general feeling among the company's officers.

At the office of the International Telephone Operators' Union, it was said that no developments were expected before next Monday, when the results of votes of the forty-five locals in New England would be compiled.

ALL LOCALS NOTIFIED.

If twenty-three locals in New England favor taking a strike vote, the national council will meet to set a date for the strike poll and the date on which a strike will be declared.

Notices of special meetings have been sent out by the officers of virtually all the New England locals for special meetings to decide whether a strike vote shall be taken.

The Providence, East Providence, Pawtucket and Springfield locals have voted and in each instance sustained the decision of the executive council of all the locals that the issue should be submitted for a general strike vote.

Youth Asks Police for Permit to Beat Up Love Rival

"This girl is married, but not living with her husband, and I'm single. My rival's married," the youth told Captain Curry. "She prefers me to him anyhow, don't you dear?" he added, turning to the girl.

"Yes, I do," replied the girl, "and I hope you get the permit."

"Not from me," declared Captain Curry. "You'll have to settle it among yourselves. There are places where youth rushes in that the police department fears to tread."

AIRMEN WATCH BANDITS AND CAPTIVES

Shanghai, May 29 (I. N. S.).—Two Chinese army airplanes are kept flying over the mountains near Paotzuku to spy upon the movements of the Shanting bandits, who seized a number of foreign prisoners, including many Americans, from a Shanghai-Peking train, said a dispatch from Lincheng today.

Military leaders feared the bandands, alarmed by the encircling troops, would attempt to carry their prisoners into the almost inaccessible Tailshan Mountains to the north.

JAP IN ARMY OF U. S. BARRED AS A CITIZEN

United States District Judge Lowell today handed down an opinion which may have a widespread effect in the matter of non-Caucasians naturalized during the war.

The opinion was in reference to the case of Hidemitsu Toyota, a Jap, who served in the American military during the war.

Pursuant to the act of July 19, 1919, Toyota was naturalized May 16, 1921, because of his service.

Judge Lowell's opinion today affirms revocation of Toyota's citizenship.

In his opinion Judge Lowell states that the United States law specified or prohibited the naturalization of any but "free white men." An exception to this was made in 1870 when colored people of the African race were made eligible for citizenship.

Despite the emergency act of 1315, Judge Lowell said he could see no way in which the color line definitely established by the government could be overlooked.

The Toyota case was regarded as a test case, and will affect many others of non-Caucasian race who were naturalized during the war, because of military service.

19TH VICTIM OF AXE MURDER IS DEAD

Birmingham, Ala., May 29.—Birmingham police are trying to solve the murder of Charles Graffeo, the latest victim of a series of axe assaults which, during the past forty-two months has taken the lives of nineteen persons and resulted in injuries to seventeen others.

Graffeo was found dead at his store in an outlying residential section with his skull crushed by the blow of an axe, and his throat slashed. A blood-spattered axe stood behind the door. Its handle was shortened, so that it could be carried beneath a coat.

The dead man's pockets had been rifled and the store robbed. It was the fourth case of its kind this year.

Alleged perpetrators have been sent to jail in only three of the long list of cases. Police have divided the axe cases into two classifications. In the first, grocery men and cafe owners have been the victims, and in the other group the intermingling of races is said to have been involved.

While the attacks in some cases apparently have had robbery as the motive, the idea is that the others were the result of quarrels between negroes who had stolen property and men who are acting as "fences."

Daughter Found

H. L. AULANKO AND WIFE.

Ethel, the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Theda Aulanko, No. 94 Willow street, Lynn, mysteriously missing for more than two months, is in Tammerfors, Finland, with her father, Hermond L. Aulanko.

This information was contained in a letter from the estranged husband to his wife.

In 1923, Aulanko met his wife as she left the restaurant in Lynn, where she was then employed, and fired three shots into her side, "to keep our daughter from feeling shame because of her mother," he said. He then turned the weapon on himself in an attempt at suicide.

Mrs. Aulanko recovered, and appeared in criminal court where she pleaded for the acquittal of Aulanko for the sake of the daughter. Her plea was granted.

24 GIRLS AT B. U. WIN PHYSICAL EXCELLENCE

Two dozen young women students at the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University have been officially declared physically fit.

They have been awarded chevrons, numerals, monograms and the bars for physical fitness and excellence in sports.

Of the sixty-four girls who began athletic training under the direction

Wife Imprisons Husband to Block Divorce Suit

Chicago, May 29.—One hundred and twenty-five pounds of persecuted husband, probably bound and gagged, is being held captive in a West Erie street rooming house by an 180-pound wife, Attorney J. Link told Circuit Judge Ryner.

This was the third set date for the hearing of Charles F. Crane's divorce suit against Rosa, his wife, at which Charles has failed to appear.

"Crane called me up Saturday," Link, his attorney, told the judge. "But after a few words his voice was choked off. I believed he was kidnaped by his wife."

WALES CARICATURED IN 1972 WEDDING

London, May 29. (I. N. S.)— Criticism was aroused today by an exhibition of caricatures by Max Beerbohm. One depicts the Prince of Wales, aged and bearded, marrying the daughter of an English landlady in 1972. It is entitled: "Long Choosing and Beginning Late."

It is based on the prince's apparent aversion to marriage.

The Evening News says that, during the recent visit of the prince to the home of his sister, he got great enjoyment daily wheeling the Lascelles baby and carousing in Princelles baby and carousing in Princess Mary married Viscount Lascelles.

MANIAC FIGHTS COPS; TRIES TO KILL TAXI MAN

Luring a taxicab driver to his room with the alleged intention of murdering him, a drink-crazed man who described himself to the police as Arthur Karstein, No. 25 Grove street, West End, turned upon the police who came to the chauffeur's rescue, and was overpowered only after a fierce struggle which wrecked the room.

When finally overpowered and searched, Karstein was found to be a veritable walking arsenal. A loaded 45-calibre revolver in a holster was fastened about his waist with a cartridge belt carrying more that a dozen rounds of ammunition. A pocket concealed a long dirk.

Arthur L. Spinney, a taxicab driver, answered a can at No. 186 Commercial street. He was met there by Karstein, who asked to be driven to No. 55 Grove street for a trunk.

At the Grove street address Spinney was asked to accompany Karstein into the building to help carry the trunk down stairs.

Banging the door in the room where the trunk was supposed to be, the drink-crazed man whipped out a revolver and told Spinney to prepare to die.

Realizing the man was temporarily out of his mind, Spinney talked with him, diverted his attention and then fled. He summoned the police.

Karstein was booked on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff
"USE LIQUID ARVON"

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft and look and feel a hundred times better.

A Child of the Canadian Prairies

IN the little prairie town of Bengough, in the province of Saskatchewan, Canada, lives a little girl named Elizabeth Campbell.

Elizabeth is a true daughter of the prairies, having lived all of her life in Bengough, where her father, H. A. Campbell, is the proprietor of the Bengough Drug Store.

When Elizabeth Campbell was born—on February 7, 1918—she weighed only three and a half pounds. She was put on Eagle Brand Condensed Milk at once and immediately began to gain in every way.

"Later," writes her father, "we tried several other brands of baby food, but they did not agree with her at all, so we went back to Eagle Brand and that, with the addition of lime water, continued to be her only diet till she weaned herself. Eagle Brand has a 'premier place' among the baby foods in my drug store."

With the aid of Eagle Brand Condensed Milk, famous for years as a baby food, Elizabeth was able to overcome her handicap. Today she has developed into a sturdy little girl of five, with the perfect physique and active mind that are each child's normal birthright.

Scientists of today are laying more stress than ever upon the need for starting the child right just as early as possible, particularly in the matters of food and health rules. You cannot begin too early to build up a fine foundation of health for your child. Almost everything in later life depends upon it, for while a child can overcome a poor start, in so many cases ill health during babyhood is needless.

Correct feeding is the key to your baby's health. Nothing is better for him than mother's milk, but if you must resort to artificial feeding, Eagle Brand is the natural food to use.

Eagle Brand agrees with most babies because it is exceptionally digestible. It is only milk and sugar—no other ingredients at all—combined by a special process which breaks down the hard casein of cow's milk, which is the indigestible part. Yet it does not impair the vitamin content to any extent. The very best quality of cow's milk, every bit of which is tested and examined, goes into Eagle Brand. Then after it is condensed it is sealed up safely in containers which absolutely prevent all danger of contamination.

With Eagle Brand you can protect your baby against the dangers of "summer complaints"—which are probably digestive troubles. You need never run the risk of changing his food in hot weather, because you can keep Eagle Brand in the house even without ice, you can carry it with you, or you can buy it anywhere. More than that, you can continue to give your baby Eagle Brand as a beverage long after he is through with the bottle. The same qualities in Eagle Brand which have brought health to thousands of babies, promote growth and vigor in the older child, too.

A useful young mother's guide called Baby's Welfare is published by this company. If you want a free copy send today. The Borden Company, 88 Borden Building, New York.

BOY OF 12 TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Despondent because his father was confined to the Psychopathic Hospital for attempting suicide by drowning a short time ago, Robert McGinnis, twelve years old, of No. 92 Condor street, East Boston, attempted to take his life by turning on the gas in the kitchen of his home.

Playmates smelled gas and found the boy lying in the hall unconscious. They called the police, who restored the boy on the way to the East Boston Relief Hospital by using the prone method of resuscitation. His condition is reported as favorable.

CITY TO START UFFORD PLAN WORK AT ONCE

Mayor Curley is today preparing to call a conference of city officials and railroad executives to take the first step in the proposed $4,300,000 development of rapid transit in Dorchester and the outlaying communities.

At least 25,000,000 passengers a year will be benefited by the new Ufford plan, which includes extension of the Dorchester tunnel and electrification of the Shawmut branch of the New Haven Railroad.

The plan approved by the Legislature includes the following:

To extend the Dorchester tunnel 1,000 feet beyond Andrew square, so that it will come to the surface at the Boston division tracks of the New Haven Railroad at the junction of Boston and Dorchester avenue.

To build a new set of double tracks paralleling the Boston division to Harrison square station, where a connection will be made with the Shawmut branch.

To electrify the Shawmut branch as far out as Fields Corner, where a great new terminal will be built to connect with the surface trolley cars to Milton, Mattapan, Ashmont and Cedar Grove.

As a result of this plan, passengers will be enabled to ride on fast Elevated tunnel trains from Cambridge to Fields Corner by way of the Cambridge-Dorchester tunnel, Boston division and Shawmut branch.

There will be stations at Crescent avenue, Savin Hill and Fields Corner. The New Haven trains will continue to run into Boston from South Station.

The plan was conceived years ago by Charles A. Ufford, of Dorchester, who has never abandoned his "labor of love" despite jeers.

Work will be started at once in the $4,300,000 development which will give Dorchester and outlying communities rapid transit and for which C. A. Ufford (insert) worked, single-handed, for fifteen years.

Sixty adults were killed up to May 1, and twenty-six have been killed in motor accidents since, bringing the total number of adults to eighty-six, and the total number of recorded automobile deaths to 149 since December 1 last.

JEWS HISS FORD AS CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

Atlantic City, May 29.—Henry Ford was violently attacked for his alleged anti-Jew activities, in a resolution adopted by the Independent Order Brith Abraham, in annual convention here.

Mention of Ford's name was the signal for violent and prolonged hissing and hooting on the part of delegates in attendance.

Ford was assailed for his Presidential aspirations, and was accused of furnishing financial backing to the Ku Klux Klan.

The resolution attacking Ford was passed without a dissenting vote. Speakers sponsoring the measure were loudly cheered. The resolution follows:

"Be it resolved, That the Order of Brith Abraham, now in session, go on record as follows:

"That the delegates assembled condemn Henry Ford for his attitude against the Jews as un-American, and that his candidacy for President is an insult to the fundamentals upon which this country is based.

"Further, be it resolved, that this convention accuses Ford of being the financial backer of the hooded Ku Klux Klan, who proposes of their unpatriotic exploitation against the Jews, Catholics, negroes and foreigners."

DAWN OF PEACE WELCOMED IN ERIN

By DANIEL O'CONNELL

Dublin, May 29 (I. N. S.)—Ireland stands today upon the threshold of peace after long years of war, which have devastated the country and drained its blood. It is believed Eamon De Valera's order to his Republican followers to quit fighting against the Free State ends all warfare.

De Valera's whereabouts is still a secret, but he is believed to be near Dublin, perhaps at his old home in County Wicklow.

"Those who have opposed the Free State with weapons now become a political party within the State," said Home Minister Kevin O'Higgins. "They will be able to press any claims they may have. The country will quickly forget what has happened. There is no reason why there should not be unity to enable us to build up the nation."

Mothers The World Over Know That Lifebuoy Protects Health

Because it fights and destroys the invisible dangers ever present in dirt—one of the great causes of sickness and skin poisoning.

Most medical discoveries are to cure sickness — Lifebuoy's work is in preventing sickness. To keep well is better than to be cured.

The Daily Danger

Your husband is constantly in contact with germ-polluted things. Be careful that he purifies hands and face before the evening romp.

You cannot keep children away from dirt. They touch everything. Their playmates may live where contagious diseases exist. The dust which covers face and hands is almost certainly laden with dangerous germs. And children's hands are constantly in mouth, eyes and hair.

Mothers, you know by its antiseptic odor that Lifebuoy does more than merely remove surface dirt like ordinary soap. Its rich, creamy lather works down deep into the pores of the skin and provides sanitary protection against the dangers in dirt.

Mothers are Health Doctors

See to it that your children and husband wash thoroughly and often every inch of exposed skin. Have them use it for bath and shampoo.

Lifebuoy is as pure as soap can be made and contains the most health-promoting oils. Pure, unbleached palm-fruit oil, one of its chief ingredients, is red —so Lifebuoy is red. The creamy quality of the lather is due to cocoanut oil, one of Nature's choicest skin foods.

Lifebuoy is so bland and pure that it cannot irritate the most delicate skin. It is wonderful for the complexion. It keeps babies' skin in perfect condition. It is the favorite soap of most men.

The Protection Remains

You soon come to like Lifebuoy's pungent, sanative odor for its suggestion of perfect cleanliness. The odor vanishes in a few seconds but the protection remains.

New York, May 29.—Democracy, science, the church itself were painted as failures by Bishop Alexander Mann of Pittsburgh, formerly of Boston, in his baccalaureate sermon at the General Theological Seminary here.

Bishop Mann.

"A sense of despair is creeping over the world and the church," said Bishop Mann. "A new pessimism is oozing through modern literature. We are all conscious of it. And the church itself is conscious, as it has not been before in my time, of failure.

"You young men, so soon to enter the ministry, are going to serve a church that has failed, that knows it has failed, and is dispirited over its own failure.

"Never have we had so many democracies, and never has the world been so fearful of them," he continued. "Increasing control over natural forces has simply made the world more dangerous. And you will hear no more talk of the social millennium that is always just around the corner, or of solution toward higher things."

"It is not primarily an intellectual difference of opinion that keeps people out of the church, but the failure of the church to show power in human lives."

DONNELL DROPS SLANDER CASE AGAINST SMITH

With the filing in Superior Criminal Court of an indictment charging Earnest E. Smith with having criminally slandered Howard Donnell while he was district attorney of Essex County, the famous Donnell-Smith case is at an end.

Howard Donnell

Smith, a Boston broker, was at one time an aspirant to the office of mayor of this city.

By an agreement of counsel, Smith was to plead "nolo," and the district attorney was not to make any recommendation, but let the court decide what the disposition should be.

This agreement was reached at a conference of Assistant District Attorney Maurice Caro and Attorney Judd Dewey, representing Smith. Accompanied by Smith, the lawyers appeared before Judge O'Connell to dispose of the case, after an agreement that Donnell was no longer desirous of prosecuting the slander charge.

Smith appeared bewildered when asked in court, "What do you say to the indictment." He glanced from one court official to another until Attorney Dewey prompted him, "Plead nolo," which Smith did. Following a brief conference at the bench, Judge O'Connell announced the filing of the case.

INQUIRY ON MANN ACT CHARGES

Lynn Girl Who Was Awarded $10,000 Balm May Face the Court Again

Miss Dorothy Newburg of Lynn, who recently was awarded $10,000 heart balm from Russell T. Scott, former Toronto broker, received information today of an investigation by Department of Justice officials of facts brought out in her suit.

Chester D. Martin, United States Consul at Toronto, announced he had sent to the State Department at Washington certain facts brought out in the trial. Mr. Martin indicated an investigation was under way to determine whether or not the Mann act was violated.

"I was awarded my $10,000," said Miss Newburg today. "I got the money and have put it in the bank. My interest ends there. I have made no charges and if anything is being done it is not any of my doings."

Miss Newburg has not changed her mode of living since receiving her $10,000 award. She is still living at home with her mother and goes to work daily as a stenographer at the General Electric Company plant, Lynn.

INVALID AND BABY RESCUED FROM FIRE

A baby and a sick woman were carried from a burning house, at No. 35 Woburn street, Lexington, when fire destroyed the upper part of the structure.

Mrs. Mary J. Pherson, who was lying critically ill in her bedroom on the second floor, was taken down the stairway, by William Meadows, Mr. Harmon and Dale Sim, neighbors, before the firemen arrived.

Mrs. William Meadows, who lives at No. 19 Woburn street, and who was staying with the sick woman, carried her nine-months' old baby William Meadows, Jr., out of the house.

The firemen confined the fire to the attick bedroom, although water did damage to the second floor rooms.

Rats are blamed for the $600 damage.

NICHOLS' CAMP LOOT FOUND IN MEDFORD

Clothing estimated to be worth more than $1,000, stolen from Camp Margaret, Billerica, where John H. Nichols, wealthy Boston wool broker, aided by private detectives, forcibly took his two small daughters from his estranged wife, Mrs. Ruth B. Nichols, has been recovered by Medford police.

Headed by Sergeant John G. Buffum, a squad of police searched the home of John McGinnis, No. 240 Boston avenue, Medford. In the basement and on the first floor women's and children's clothing, identified as belonging to the Nichols family, were found.

FIND KEROSENE RAGS AT CAMBRIDGE FIRE

After extinguishing a lively fire today in the Boston Drygoods Store in a one-story building at No. 723 Main street, Cambridge, the firemen reported discovery of rags bearing distinct traces of kerosene. Fire Chief Casey notified the State fire marshal's office for investigation. The fire damage was estimated at $250.

Rockefeller Plays Squash on Top of Skyscraper

New York, May 29.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is keeping fit by playing squash tennis on top of a skyscraper. In black tights and jersey, he played at the opening of a new outdoor court on top of the Whitehall building near the home of Standard Oil.

Besides impressing spectators with his well-knit physique, he showed dexterity and speed in covering the court.

He played twenty minutes and lost, 16 to 13, to Walter Kidde, New Jersey highway commissioner.

2 GIRLS SAVED AS YACHT IS BURNED

Vineyard Haven, May 29.—Fleeing from a burning gasoline yacht, two bankers' daughters narrowly escaped drowning when the lifeboat capsized in a sudden squall.

The two girls, Catherine E. White of Worcester and Mildred Manter of this town, were rescued by the captain and finally taken aboard a catboat that came to the rescue of the burning yacht.

ON SHORT CRUISE.

Early in the day, the two girls started for a short cruise in the Markay, owned by John E. White, Worcester banker, and commanded by Capt. Herbert E. Mayhew.

A mile off East Chop the motor sack-fired and set fire to the boat. Efforts of the crew to subdue the flames were fruitless, and after fastening down the hatches, Capt. Mayhew sent up distress signals and lowered the life boat.

RESCUED BY CATBOAT.

The catboat Restless, commanded by Ellis Luce, came in response to the signals.

Luce towed the Markay into port, where fire apparatus quickly extinguished the flames. The boat was badly damaged.

Miss White is well known in social circles in this community. Her father is president of the Worcester Bank and Trust Company. Miss Manter is the daughter of W. G. Manter, a Vineyard Haven contractor and banker.

LEG MAY BE CLUE TO MURDER

Police Believe Skilled Surgeon Dismembered Body of Woman

Westport, May 29.—Search for the body of a woman was ordered by District Attorney Stanley P. Hall, following the finding of a woman's amputated leg buried in the sands at Horseneck Beach. The police suspect murder.

The gruesome find, badly decomposed and wrapped in a New York newspaper dated April 16, 1923, was made by children of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Legasse, who, with their dog, were playing ball on the beach. The dog, running to some bushes for the ball, returned dragging a bundle which contained the leg.

MURDER SUSPECTED

Police recalled the murder here, ten years ago, of Amelia St. Jean, revealed under somewhat similar circumstances.

According to Medical Examiner William H. Blanchette, the leg, apparently that of a woman, was amputated by a skilled surgeon or someone with an unusual degree of surgical knowledge. The methods used in the amputation, he said, were most modern.

State Detective Frank Clemmey, detailed by District Attorney Hall to make an investigation, was unable to find any evidence that a body had been dissected and buried in the sands of the beach.

BODY DISMEMBERED.

Search of police records of missing girls failed to give any clue. Police are following the theory that the young woman may have died following an illegal operation.

In the St. Jean murder mystery the finding of a portion of a woman's body led to the finding of other portions and the confession of the slayer that he had treated the girl illegally, and that after her death he had dismembered the body and concealed the parts in several secluded places.

AMERICAN WOOLEN PLANT IN VERMONT

St. Albans, Vt., May 29.—The American Woolen Company will establish a plant in this city.

It is expected the factory will be located on the upper floor of the Foundry Manufacturing Company building at No. 43 Lake street. From 50 to 75 girls will be employed.

WIFE IN NEED SEEKS MISSING HUSBAND

Mrs. Margaret Marchant, thirty-four years old, of No. 391 Shawmut avenue, appeals to the Boston American to aid her in her search for her husband, Walter H. Marchant, who, she alleges, deserted her last March.

"He has left me and my three children—Marion, seven years, Ruth, five, and Vincent is four years old—without a penny and with no means of support. I have had to appeal to the city for assistance so that we would not starve," she said.

Marchant, who worked as a painter at the McLean Hospital, Waverley, at the time he disappeared, drew his last wages on March 16, stating that he had another position and that he was going home.

Mrs. Marchant said that he came home, packed his suit case, and left. When she asked him why he was packing his suit case, he said he must pawn his clothes to pay the rent, she declared.

PROTEST SENT TO HUGHES

U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Discovers Cannon Mounted Aft on Yacht Istar

Norfolk, Va., May 29 (I. N. S.).—The steam yacht Istar, so-called flagship of the rum runners, has a mounted gun aft, it was charged today by Federal authorities here, and because of her British registry, the matter has been referred to the State Department at Washington.

Officers of the coastguard cutter Mascoutin, while making observations, saw a mounted gun partly covered with a tarpaulin and describe it as either a six-pounder or a three-inch rifle. Its position aft and its size, officials say, indicate that the gun is not for saluting purposes. Sporting yachts are permitted, under international law, to carry guns for this purpose, but they are rarely more than one-pounders and their position is always forward.

The rest of the rum fleet has again put to sea.

Rex. D. Sheldon, the alleged "Mr. First" of international rum smugglers, who was arrested and held under $10,000 here, is still in jail, unable to obtain bond.

Walker, a chauffeur in the employ of Stiness. The woman's body was lying in two feet of water.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A GIRL in Chicago took in five thousand dollars the other evening auctioning off kisses. She has a husband but is suing him for divorce, claiming that she wants to eliminate the middleman.

SHE doesn't mind him being the bookkeeper, but she wants to be the delivery girl and cashier.

WHEN a man steps up to the booth to buy a kiss, he doesn't want a girl's husband to deliver it to him.

WHENEVER a man goes shopping for this kind of merchandise he's always willing to carry his own parcels.

HED rather take it with him than run the risk of having it sent.

THIS dame gets a lot of money for her kisses, but they ought to be cheap, seeing that she sells them direct from dealer to customer.

OUTSIDE of a little rouge, a kiss is clear profit.

BUT naturally, you can't expect the party who sells it to you, to exchange it or take it back.

AFTER it has been delivered it is a used article and loses its value. No man is going to buy a second-hand kiss.

THIS Chicago girl was wise, she sold all of her kisses at retail.

SHE wouldn't sell them to you wholesale or give you any samples.

ONE guy was so stingy he went to a kissing auction looking for bargains.

HE didn't see any sense in paying a pretty girl $10 for one kiss when he could close his eyes and kiss an old maid twenty times for the same price.

ANOTHER guy thought he could kiss the dame as much as he wanted for ten bucks and when he got through kissing her he discovered that he had run up a bill of $487.

OF course, some of the girls at these charity auctions don't know how to kiss, but you've got to pay them for their kisses just the same whether they're rehearsing or not.

YOU'VE got to take your chances.

You wouldn't think of buying a kiss from some dame who had a slam over the booth reading "Established since 1856."

IT'S all right to patronize an old firm, but not when they're selling this sort of merchandise.

IT'S foolish to waste any dough on these kissing auctions. A man is crazy to take his money out of the bank and pay a couple of hundred dollars to kiss some stranger when he can go home and kiss his wife for nothing.

But that is about all they do—"start something."

You never can tell what great things may come from the steady worker's efforts, so do not laugh too soon when you feel exultant and especially sure of yourself in any matter.

The constant drip, drip of water wears away rocks if continued long enough, and the man who can set a pace and keep at it is bound to be heard from.

To sit down in the middle of things or to cut a wide slash all around does not get very far in the long run.

If you think enough you will not begin too loud but keep everhastingly at it till you succeed and then you can "laugh last," for you have won out.

GOAT GRABBERS

The sour wren who says she can't see how some pretty girls get all the men to flock after them when they're really such brainless creatures.

The female dance hound who never misses a dance, but who, when her mother asks her to run down to the grocer, says: "Oo, ee, I'm tired."

The ball player who always thinks the umpire is wrong when he calls him out on a third strike.

The boss who always says he would like to give you a raise, but to do it would mean he'd be forced to raise the salaries of everybody else in the place to avoid discontent.

The guy who is forever talking of the good days before prohibition when you know for a fact he was dead from the neck up in those days as well.

The salesmen, who, no matter what stuff but you try on, says you look like a million dollars in it.

The bootblack who, after he's shined your shoes, gives you a knuckle tap on the cuffs of your trousers to notify you he's all through.

The girl who deliberately smiles at you on the street and when you try to flirt gives you the cold shoulder.

FLAPPER FAIRY TALES

Lester—May I call for you in my car this afternoon, Lena? We'll motor out to the Country Club and play a few sets of tennis.

Lena—I'm sorry, but I guess we'll have to wait until next week.

Lester—What's the matter, haven't you got a racquet?

Lena—That isn't the trouble. Father sprained his arm winding the phonograph last night and I promised to stay home and beat the rugs for him.

Molly—Say, boss, if that young millionaire comes in here again I wish you'd let one of the other girls give him a manicure.

The Boss—Doesn't he give you a big tip every time?

Molly—Yes, but I can't do a good job when a customer chatters so much. All he talks about is house parties, yacht races and the new styles from Paris.

Pessimistic

Jim—The best bet? That any horse I put money on comes in last.

Thrilling Story of Man and Girl Who Are Utter Strangers Living Together in African Jungle

HOW THE STORY STARTS:

ANDREA PELLOR, the daughter of an impoverished British baron, is engaged to a millionaire diamond merchant whom she does not love. Stealing away from the Indian Ocean Hotel she sees a flying machine on the beach, being gotten ready to ascend by two men, a white and a giant black. Upon the spur of the moment she cries: "Take me with you!" He straps her in and they are away. She becomes frightened and asks to be taken back. He says he is not going back. The engine goes wrong and they land in the midst of a village in the African jungle. The natives bail him as a friend. He sends for a trunk which he had prepared her in and they are away. She becomes frightened and for his sister and gives it to Andrea.

CHAPTER X.

"FORGIVE me," he said. "I was thoughtless."

"Careless, perhaps, thoughtless never," said Andrea, smiling. "I'm for your sister. The woman that could make up that trunk is a genius."

"She would na," remarked the small mulomaniac.

Andrea turned to see thoughts there could hide awake and sound asleep at the same time. "What do you mean?"

"Nothing."

"White Man, didn't a woman make up that trunk?"

"No. There are few women living that could. Think it out. That trunk was all bone, muscle and sinew—with an after-thought gear-case at the bottom. Why, Do boy-time I saw Maisie she had two small moving cases and a wicker hamper she thought she was going to bring with her. It fixed it with a mountaineer to strap the lot overboard in the middle of the last moment. She never even heard of this trunk."

During his long speech the color had been rising to Andrea's cheeks. "I don't think I like you as much as I did," she said tartly. For a moment she looked at him out of eyes that were as old as her years. "I suppose it had to come out. Somehow you were getting too good to be true. You brought and packed all those things yourself."

He met her gaze steadily. "Didn't," he whispered. "don't let us be silly."

"All right!" said Andrea with a quick shrug of one shoulder. "But you've known lots of women, haven't you?"

"You exaggerate," he answered, smilingly. "I've met lots of women."

"Pshaw!" said Andrea. "That's another cold stock of a shibboleth. one men know lots about women, —a jolly sight too much."

"That's different from knowing women," said Mzungo quietly. "It's no shibboleth, that old belief. Woman, to man is an eternal mystery, a land of discovery,—a land of valleys and peaks, of lights and shadows, of storm and aching peace. Continents and oceans are lost in her untraveled heart and when she throws wide her arms, the way is open to Heaven and Hell."

Andrea wished she could see his face

"I'm going to bed," murmured Andrea and stole away.

It was just as well for Andrea that she had gone early to bed for at five o'clock of the next morning a rock was hurled at her door that almost burst it in. Even so she did not awake with a start. She came soberly and decently into consciousness upon the full meaning of certain dialogue that was going on outside brought her to her feet with a jump.

"Didn't you get her?" yelled Mzungo's voice from half across the kraal.

She slipped on her bathrobe, opened the door and put out her head. "Were you calling me?" she asked with early-morning dignity.

"Not exactly," answered the white man in the same tone. "Breakfast in twenty minutes; bath when you come home." He turned to give orders to a group of his natives.

Andrea was instantly thrilled to the new adventure. She called to Bathtub to bring her washstand and water and rubbed one bare foot against the other in impatience until he was out of the way; then she dressed feverishly and ran out, eager as a boy just on the first spring hunt for early apples.

"Why, it's cold," she cried. "Great, cool air!" she added, rubbing her hands together.

Mzungo nodded and turned to look her over. "Just the same," he said, "you'd wear a pith helmet instead of that sex-appeal wooly thing."

He sent Bathtub to fetch one from his hut. In ten minutes they had breakfasted; in five more they were off. A long line of blacks preceded them, and behind came Mzungo's gunbearer, waterboys, Bathtub, a carrier or two, and an ancient donkey half hidden under an enormous cow-boy saddle.

"What a funny-looking old donkey!" remarked Andrea. "What's he for?"

"For you, when you are tired," answered Mzungo.

"Really! For me?" said Andrea and glanced back with increased interest at the long Roman-nosed face that seemed to be pondering eternally over the indignity of vasty ears. "What's his name?"

"Mzungo threw back his head and laughed softly. "Why," he said, "I never thought I'd have to tell any one when I named him. We call him Marguerite."

As though he had heard and deplored the adding of insult to generations of injury, the donkey stopped in his tracks and brayed. Above the raucous cry sounded the peal of Andrea's silver laughter. "Oh!" she gasped. "Isn't he clever. And why on earth did you call him Marguerite?"

"I named him after a friend of mine."

"Was she as ugly as all that?"

"Oh, no. She's about the prettiest woman I ever knew but she was just like him inside. Try to head him off some time."

"The best way to head off a woman," mused Andrea, "is to marry her."

"That's so," agreed Mzungo promptly, "but friendship has limits."

In Single File

They were necessarily walking in single file on the narrow path and Andrea was behind him. She looked quizzically at his back and wished she could see his face instead. But the attention was soon drawn to other things. They had come to the fringe of the forest. With curves and undulations it stretched as far as the eye could see. Spaced from two to three hundred yards apart and set well out from the shadow of the trees were mysterious piles of something or other that shone straw-gold under the morning sun.

At the first of the heaps Mzungo stopped. "This," he said, kicking at the silky coils, "is the greatest substitute for hemp and sisal that the world has yet produced. The war has made it worth—well, not quite its weight in gold, unless you count its by sheer profits on the cost of production. It is nothing but the bark of the lemba tree which we make up the bulk of all the forests in this region, prepared by hand on a process of my own."

Andrea looked at the endless piles of fibre, tons and tons of it, stretching away like the boots in a prairie fence. "And you say this is a secret!" she asked incredulously.

He smiled. "It is so far," he answered. "But if you knew all the facts you wouldn't find it so wonderful. In the first place this bit of country is cut off from every other by long stretches of waterless wilderness. In the only direction that that isn't true, which is straight down the river, there is a wide zone that in four hundred years has never been pacified by the European dominence of the Province. Those unsubdued tribes have been my friends in times past and are my allies today. No white man but myself has ever crossed their boundaries and lived; consequently they can tell no tales to my harm. Do you begin to see?"

Andrea nodded.

"Then at the coast," he continued, "just within the mouth of the river, I have a blind in the way of a sisal plantation. That gives the excuse for a steamer with machinery, say, to come in without arousing suspicion. I chartered one just small enough to cross the bar at high tide, just big enough to go anywhere on the seven seas. With the profits on her first full cargo, I bought her outright and smiled even at the war price they asked for her. She has made two trips since."

A War Fortune

"So you are a profiteer on the way to making a war fortune," commented Andrea.

He flushed more deeply than she had yet seen him. "If you stay here long enough," he said stoutly, "you may understand."

He turned from her and plunged at right angles into the forest. She followed him into the chill air under the great trees. From what she had read in books she had thought that all forests "in Africa were jungles, impassable to the axe-less wayfarer and vow, —she caught her breath at the poignant memory of the silent, open reaches under the beeches at Pellor.

The temba trees had clean and sturdy trunks that rose to a height of thirty feet or more; from there they branched out, their widely domed tops interlacing in an endless succession of cathedral arches. Under them stretched low, open vistas draped with pendants of Spanish moss, still as stalactites. Under foot was a deep carpet of the tiny temba leaves, dried brown and crisp as the shells of ripe chestnuts. There was no brush.

Wide Clearing

All too soon, following Mzungo's lead, Andrea came out with him into a wide clearing which simultaneously with their arrival began to ring to the blows of many axes. Through all its length it swarmed with blacks at work; some felling trees, some stripping them of bark, others gathering it and still others stacking the bared wood and cleaning up the general litter according to the most approved rules of modern forestry.

A thought came to Andrea. "Why did you start cutting way in here?" she asked.

"If ever," replied the man, "you come back across the plains after a hard day's hunt and see the sun on the new leaves of the temba trees, you'll know."

"Oh, will it!" said Andrea happily. "That's just why I asked, because I guessed it wasn't in you to disfigure the noble face of the forest you're murdering."

"Not murdering," said Mzungo quickly. "These blacks all climb like monkeys. I could strip the trees at half the expense if I didn't know that a felled forest with a seeder left here and there will recover in time, a stripped one left standing never."

"What a wise man you are" said Andrea quite seriously.

"But that was an easy one" he said. "I learned it from passing through the mangrove industry just above. You can't help reading things that are written on the face of Nature,—not after you've tracked game."

Lovely Daughter of English Baron Escapes in Aeroplane From Distasteful Marriage

FOXY GRANDPA STORY

MRS. HORNBILL IS SHUT IN THE HOUSE

SO you would like to hear a story about a peculiar bird, would you, children?

Let me think on. I know what bird I'll tell you about—one of the most interesting feathered creatures in the world, and how we happened to see him and his family—well, we didn't see all of his family, for when six of his mate, but I'll tell you about that later.

We were in The Transvaal, in South Africa, it was a lovely sunny day and as it was our afternoon rest, we looked for a nice cool, shady place.

Suddenly over our heads we heard a peculiar cry of a bird. We didn't pay much attention to it at first, but when it kept on and came nearer to us, we were interested at once.

I whispered to Daddy:

"I never saw a bird like that. What a big bill he has."

Daddy reached out and said softly:

"That's a hornbill. Be very quiet. Perhaps he has a family around here. If he has, you'll see one of the most unusual things in bird life."

We didn't budge. We just sat there like statues and I'll tell you what we saw.

Mr. Hornbill hopped and hopped and then flew from tree to tree. Soon he came back with a berry in his mouth and flew right up to a tiny hole in the tree. He put his bill in the hole and when he drew it out again the berry was gone. Three times he repeated his trip on one side and explained:

"Well, you see Mr. Hornbill does a very peculiar thing. When Mrs. Hornbill lays her eggs and hatches out her babies, he closes up the hole in the tree with mud and moistening that he can find and she stays in there all the time and he helps him do it. They just leave room enough for Mrs. Hornbill's head to stick out so he can bring her food to keep her alive and for her to feed her babies. Then when the children are old enough to take care of themselves, they tear down the wall and she and her little ones fly out in the sunshine once more."

"My goodness!" I exclaimed. "Does he have to do that to keep her on her nest? Won't she do it of her own accord?"

"Oh, yes," Mrs. Hornbill is not only willing but anxious to raise her own family. But, you know, there are lots of monkeys and lizards around here and if they didn't wall up their little house, the monkeys and lizards would climb up the tree and eat the eggs or destroy the little birds."

A WORD TO THE WIVES

BY VIOLA BROTHERS SHORE

THERE was once an old Burgomaster who had the habit of nagging his Wife to hurry—not because there was need of Haste, but because he had a Disposition which must Fret about something and his good Food gave him so little to grumble about.

She waited upon him so assiduously that he had nothing to do on rising from a well-served meal but sit outside his door smoking his pipe while she saw that the food was put away and the windows barred. And then, she must needs change from her house dress into something more suitable for a Burgomaster's Wife—for he was always much concerned about the Opinions of the Neighbors.

And all the while, although she was never late, he would call, at short intervals, "Wife, are you not ready yet?" "Hurry Wife"—"Wife! Come along!" until she grew so rattled that her fingers failed at the buttons. The Doctor told him he was making her ill, but the Burgomaster always Growled in reply.

She had a dream one night that he was calling her, and instead of the Wall and she and her little ones fly out in the sunshine once more."

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be married in about two months. Is it necessary for the young man to ask my parents' consent? What, if anything, should he say to them?

H. H. H.

YES. A young man who is anxious to do the fair and decent thing to the parents of his future wife talks over with her father his wish to marry the daughter and his plans for the future. This is the correct thing to do, and the parents will gain for him another element of respect. It is so easy for young people to forget that parents have a human interest in the future welfare of their children. I am glad that you are trying to settle this question with a wish for thoughtfulness to your parents.

KILBANE HAS HARD BATTLE

The champion's match between Johnny Kilbane and Tommy Grant in Cleveland on Friday evening will be a contest that promises to make it the most spectacular and interesting ring battle ever staged in America.

Grant will be escorted to the ring by a detachment of French war veterans, carrying the tricolor, and the world's title holder who served 22 months in the American army will march to the ring to the tune of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Johnny Kilbane was the first champion athletic boxer in America to secure knighthood when the United States declared war. During the world war Johnny Kilbane was decorated by the French government and received from the French Secretary of War Baker with letters from Gen. Mayer of Lorraine and Kilbane's home town. Like a good fellow Johnny told the committee that he was ready to enter on his new duties whenever they were.

Kilbane Discovered Boxing Aided Bayonet Drill

Johnny was the first boxer assigned to an army training camp and the first to discover the close relation between boxing and bayoneting. He demonstrated to the officers of Camp Sherman at Chillicothe, Ohio, that a man's speed in the use of bayonet was doubly quadrupled to both offense and defensive tactics. And when Corporal Kilbane's services had long been taken up and signed to every American soldier and remains today one of the most important factors in camp use.

Kilbane received a letter from former Secretary of War Baker in which the latter declared that the champion had rendered more valuable service to the country than many officers who had received commissions.

The demand for tickets for the big bout has been so great that two more grandstands have been placed on sale at the Polo Grounds and Fred Supman at Brockton as well as the New York baseball office in Forty-fifth street and Fifth Avenue. Tickets are also on sale at No. 1367 Broadway and at Spalding's Sporting Goods Stores.

Herman and Kaplan in the Semi-Final.

The semi-final in the championship bouts at the Polo Grounds on Saturday evening will introduce two well known contenders for featherweight honors. Dave Herman, a Jersey boy, who fought Kid Kaplan seven times in New York.

Herman and Kaplan met twice before, being staged in Newark and Jersey City. Herman won the first contest and Kaplan was declared winner of the second bout. The meeting on Saturday will be the rubber and as Winner will be awarded a decision, it is a chance against the title holder.

For the second bout from the ring to the New York Yankees baseball park, Harry Frazee, owner of the Yankees, has arranged a baseball parade. The Yankees will be escorted by the Kilbane Club of Cleveland, and the championship trophy will bring the Kilbane party to New York. The Mayor and chief of police will head the delegation. Another special train will bring a crowd from Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport and other cities.

Another bout that will attract the fistic fans in New York is the one between Jack Johnson, Curtis Sloan and Jack Blackburn, all of the West Side. Mike Gibbons, the well known middleweight boxer, has also arranged a bout between Jack Blackburn and Jack Logan.

THE WAYS OF A HUSBAND—By ANN LISLE

Continuing the Interesting and Intensely Human Adventures of Anne and Jim

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Jim and Anne find happiness again on a honeymoon spent in the apartment of Betty Winston, loaned for the occasion. They go to Dreamwold for a Sunday dinner wi Jeanie and are met in the grounds by Rosa, who ignores Anne. Rosa advises the discharge of Mabel Storrs to save the big salary. This Anne resents. Evvy helps Anne arrange her apartments and a dinner is given as a housewarming. Phoebe grows hysterical on receipt of Carlotta's wedding invitation.

By Ann Lisle

SUDDENLY I had a gnawing consciousness that I hadn't eaten a bite since lunch. So I removed my hat and coat slowly with my mind focussed on the need of calmness and poise. Going to the kitchen I made myself a sandwich and poured a glass of milk. I held myself to the task of devouring the somehow unwelcome rations. Suddenly the telephone rang as I realized I'd been tensely waiting for it to do.

"That you, Anne? Well, it's about time! How often are you planning to do this disappearing act? I suppose you were down at the office with Rockhill again or sitting out in front of the apartment where you could hardly be expected to hear the telephone. I've been calling you every hour since nine."

"I came home for dinner," I broke in wearily. "You could have me then."

"If you came home to dinner, why didn't you call me at the office?" he demanded.

No Message

"I got no message—"

"Of course not. You never do get messages. I've left a dozen with that new maid this week and find them all delivered.

"I got no message," I repeated, half choked by the need of protesting that I was telling the truth.

"All right, suppose you didn't. Why under the sun did you traipse out without waiting to see if I was coming home?"

"Neal called me—"

"You phoned Jim without paying. "Somebody's always calling me any attention to what I was trying to say.

"You're always out. There's no one there to keep a semblance of discipline, so the maids go out, too, I suppose."

"Possibly they were out," I replied coldly. "Or they may have been in bed and sound asleep by the time you began trying to reach the house on the telephone at nine. I think you said it was."

"Now you listen to me, young woman!" Jim flung at me furiously. "I haven't been able to get in a word edgewise since you started your tirade."

I smiled with twisted lips, but said nothing. It was about the last straw to a terrible evening, the last straw in a week of bickering and arguing.

Amiable Jim

But all the while Jim was talking away with a great attention to detail, I managed to focus enough on his words to discover what he was telling me.

He'd been delayed at the office by work and had found that the only way he could see a very important man was by meeting him for dinner. He had telephoned my office and I had just left. So he called the apartment and gave Alma his message. She'd promised to deliver it. It didn't seem possible that she had forgiven.

"Alma did not tell me," I said again.

"All right—all right. Don't harp on that. Listen to me. While my client and I were dining who comes into the restaurant but Rosa with young Ortiz? And Rosa gets the idea of having a house-warming. So we all raced out to the telephone booths and began calling our friends and families. I couldn't get you, so I took Betty. You ask her if Rosa doesn't know how to give a party!"

"Are you telephoning me from Rosa's?" I demanded in sudden horror.

"Say. What do you take me for?" asked Jim brusquely. "Do you think I'm so proud of the way you go your own path that I want the whole bunch to find it out? Anyway Rosa hasn't her telephone yet. I'm at the drug store around the corner from her place."

"Jim you sound so queer," I said.

"That's right—go on, try to shift the burden to me. I sound funny. Well, suppose Rosa, being a Mexican, has the makings of a little punch. Do you begrudge a fellow that? Now listen to me, Anne. Betty discovered that an old pal of hers lives right in the same building with Rosa—has a studio there. It's some famous painter who was ever entertaining the boys in France at the time Betty was driving her ambulance. We've been down there looking at Miss Gregory's paintings, and I made an excuse to come out and buy some cigarettes. I wanted to see if you were still gallivanting around with Rockhill."

"Jim," I said, tense with a fury I didn't try to control. "Will you listen to me for a minute instead of meandering along the way you're doing? Now get this. I came home and was prepared to stay home. Neal telephoned that Phoebe was in a state of hysteria and that he couldn't do a thing with her. I left a note sage for you with Alma and raced over there——"

"And you've been there ever since. I suppose coming home by yourself at midnight," broke in Jim. "That might go, only Betty happened to say that Rockhill was in the office when she left."

I had a moment of fury. Then some tension in my brain snapped. After all, Jim wouldn't be so jealous unless he loved me. My heart softened. And I could hear the difference in my voice as I cried:

"Jim—come home! I've had a terrible evening. We couldn't get Phoebe's doctor for hours. She was half crazy. We couldn't reach Jeanie. Neal and I went through tortures."

"Why didn't you call me?" demanded Jim curtly.

"I tried to," I began. Then I broke off with an eager laugh. "Listen, silly boy. You're jealous of shadows. Come home."

"Why didn't you call me if my sister was so sick?" Jim repeated with elaborate dignity.

"I tell you you're jealous of shadows. You're my tired boy. Come home."

"No—you can't manage me and —wheedle me as if I were a child," said Jim, in a voice that was little short of maudlin. "You're too independent and superior and calm since you went into business. That's how all successful women are, I guess. Too darn superior! Can't ruffle them. I'm going to the club to think this out."

"Jim—come straight home!" I demanded briskly. "We're not two children to quarrel over nothing."

"All right. You win!"

What Are the Mermaids Saying?

DRAWN BY PEGGY PRENTICE

Copyright, 1923, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. 5-19

ARE the sounds of the wild waves singing on the beach merely the melodies of water swishing over rocks and sand? Or is there something more enchanting in their ceaseless murmurings? Can it be that mingled in the music there rise the voices of mermaids?

When two sweethearts are on the shore—in that instant when he begs her to name "the day"—the question and the promise are made to the accompaniment of a melody that seems to bear lovely voices lifted in Love's perfect chant.

What are they singing? What would these voices say so mortal ears can understand? Is there envy or ideal happiness mingled in the melody? Or do the mermaids simply sing: "Good luck, long life and happiness forever!"

—PEGGY PRENTICE.

A Splendid Sequel to the Famous Story of Wedded Life, "When a Girl Marries"

HEAT IN THE EARTH

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

"Assuming that I had a reason to sink a perpendicular shaft to an indefinite depth; how deep could I go before being impelled to cease on account of the increasing temperature from the heat in the centre of the earth?" —J. D., Fruitville, Cal."

IF you mean how deep before your boring tools would be softened by the heat, disregarding all other problems, you might go down, perhaps, fifteen or twenty miles, or even more. But if you mean at what depth could men live and work even for very brief periods, it is doubtful if you could go even as deep as two miles.

There are a few mine shafts reaching, or somewhat exceeding, 5,000 feet. I think there is one in Michigan almost exactly one mile deep, (5,280 feet). At these depths the temperature is oppressive, but short shifts of work are still possible. It is said that men have worked in some mines where the rock temperature was as high as 150 degrees Fahrenheit, but where the air was kept at 135 degrees by ventilating apparatus blowing down fresh air from the surface. In the Comstock Lode work was done at an air temperature as high as 170 degrees.

Much depends upon the locality. The average rate of increase of temperature, with increase of depth in the earth's crust is figured at about one degree Fahrenheit for every fifty-three feet of descent. This would give a total temperature at the depth of one mile, of about 100 degrees above the mean temperature at the mine's mouth.

But the variations from the average rate of increase are very wide. Sometimes the gain is only one degree in 75 or 80 feet, sometimes one in 100 feet, and rates lower than one degree in 200 feet have been recorded in Michigan copper mines and Rand (Africa) gold mines. In one of the Rand mines the rate was only one degree in 254 feet. That would imply an increase of only 100 degrees at a depth of not far short of five miles!

The effects of too much heat cannot be judged by the temperature alone. The character of the air as to purity, etc., counts for much. Thus in the great tunnels driven under the Alps it was found that in some places a temperature of not more than 90 degrees was sufficient to incapacitate men for work.

The general problem of the interior heat of the earth is a difficult one. It is likely, however, that below a depth of a few miles the rate of increase of temperature becomes more regular. There is also a reason to think that there may be a kind of leather-like stratum below which the increase of temperature virtually ceases.

ANSWER TO WRONG HERE PROBLEM

It is distinctly rude to extend an invitation to a party to one girl in the presence of another. One can always arrange a moment for this when third person is out of earshot.

LUCK TODAY IN BUSINESS

ASTROLOGERS read this as an auspicious day in which the ruling planets wield benefic influence. Ambition is fanned into flame at this time, and for this reason there may be an undertow of envy and jealousy for you to battle with.

Those whose birthdate it is have the augury of a most fortunate year in business, with possible removal of journeys. A shadow may arise over domestic happiness unless precaution to offset it by exemplary conduct is adopted.

Children born on this day may be disposed to carelessness and unfaithfulness, but generally good fortune will smile upon them.

ROMANCE OF JEWELS

FEW diamonds in the history of the world have ever been engraved, but one with an ancient Oriental association was the "Akbar Shah."

As far as known, its first owner was the Great Mogul Akbar, who died in 1605. Later, his famous successor, Shah Jehan, had engraved on two sides of it the following inscriptions in Arabic:

"Shah Akbar,
The Shah of the World.
1628 A. H."

On the reverse side:

"To the Lord of the Two Worlds,
1039 A. H.
Shah Jehan."

If founded on the Hejira or Fuselli era, these dates would correspond to somewhere about 1618-29 of the Christian era. The stone disappeared at the close of the seventeenth century and was lost until late in the nineteenth century, when it was recognized in Turkey by the inscriptions. It was known there as the "Shepherd's Stone." In February, 1866, George Blogg purchased it in Constantinople, brought it to London and had it recut from 116 English carats to a drop-shape diamond of seventy-two carats. The inscriptions, unfortunately, were destroyed in the cutting. He sold it to the Gaikwar of Baroda for 25,000 pounds.

Tradition says that the "Akbar Shah" was one of the four splendid stones in the eyes of the peacocks of the famous Peacock Throne of the Moguls, constructed by Shah Jehan, that extraordinary sovereign who also built the Taj Mahal, the most beautiful marble structure ever created by man. The Peacock Throne was seized by Nadir Shah of Persia at the sack of Delhi.

BLOOD SO THIN—COULD NOT KEEP WARM

Says WINCARNIS Helped Him

"For months I had been in a terribly weak and rundown condition. I was so weak, in fact, that I always felt as if my legs were just about to double under me. My blood was so thin that I could not keep warm in cold weather. I could not eat much and what I did eat seemed to do me no good. One day a friend recommended Wincarnis so enthusiastically to me that I immediately bought a bottle. Before I had taken half the bottle, I realized that at last I had found something that was doing me good. I improved so fast, it was simply marvellous. Less than three bottles of Wincarnis have made me feel like a new man."

WHO FIRST FELT "LIKE A FIGHTING COCK"?

COCK-FIGHTING was born with the cocks.

But it is only 80 years ago that the first man felt "like a fighting cock!"

Now he has brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, all over the world —all feeling "like a fighting cock!"

It happens this way: A person half sick with bad stomach, dull and heavy headache, takes a Beecham's Pills just before going to bed. Immediately the Pills begin to harmonize the digestive and eliminative organs.

Consequently, this person has a good night's sleep and arises in the morning with clear brain, bright eyes, no headache, and full of energy for work and play.

It is now just 80 years since Beecham's Pills first began correcting disordered stomachs and stirring sluggish livers and bowels to natural activity — and feeling "like a fighting cock" is associated as inseparably with Beecham's Pills, as the pills are with good health.

Rails and Steels Are Leaders in Upward Movement for New York Market

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Have Americans grown up economically? Are they learning to think bigger as well as clearer? Have they ceased to be frightened at industrial or commercial or railroad combinations merely because of their great magnitude? Are they no longer alarmed by formation of "billion dollar" organizations? Did the war teach us to regard billions nearly much as we formerly regarded millions?

* * *

I have just received the following from a well-informed reader:

"Not long ago a certain financier (Frank A. Vanderlip) declared that the American people were in face of economic illiteracies. He was moved to this utterance because of popular indifference to the European business situation.

"When, however, we compares the present-day attitude of the public on certain economic questions with that of ten years ago on these questions the case of the people does look so bad after all.

"For example there is the general acceptance nowadays on the part of the public of the idea of the billion dollar corporation. A decade or so ago, however, a corporation that had attained the growth of even a tenth of this size found its public relations its most serious problems. No one, however, bothers his head about just how over the fact that the Pennsylvania Railroad, the New York Central Railroad and other corporations have all grown into billion dollar corporations.

"The public apparently is learning the great economic truth that it takes big resources to do a big job, and that to speak of a billion dollar company as a trust is a handy way of discrediting a company doing a business of nation wide proportions.

* * *

"Rather definite evidence that this is the state of public opinion at present was brought home not long since on the occasion of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company when an increase in its capitalization was made of a billion dollar class. Hardly a note of criticism came from any quarter, although the news of the event was duly published.

"The telephone people are those students of public opinion who, after the announcement was made that they would spend $1,000,000,000 in the next few years, promptly began to buy newspaper space, presumably believing that this was a timely good way of educating the nature of the public's feelings.

"But the interests of newspapers and editorials examined failed to reveal any evidence of opposing criticism. On the other hand there was considerable indication of a nature to indicate that the billion dollar corporation is now to be regarded by the public as a matter of course.

"The public, it would seem, is no longer in the economic kindergarten."

* * *

Not long ago the United States Steel Corporation was regarded as our most formidable corporation. Judge Gary calmly announced recently that the corporation would spend $75,000,000 annually for the next five years. The public accepted this announcement without the slightest sign of alarm. Even the shareholders, indeed, took the news efficient without the slightest ground that America had been the first nation in the world to develop a business organization of such colossal size.

* * *

As a matter of fact, Swift & Company has a number of years ago become a billion dollar business. Now the Standard Oil Company is more than a billion dollar group of companies. In other words, the idea of Swift & Company and Standard Oil seemingly.

Both the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central are billion dollar corporations. The Pennsylvania has recently had a billion dollar stock and fully half a billion bonds. The New York Central has the guaranteed-stock-and-bonds and fully equivalent of a billion stock.

* * *

Of course, Steel is regarded as one enterprise, because of our billion-dollar corporations, in one way and another, have grown and expand those of the Steel Corporation. Both Swift, American Can, Standard Oil and Steel claiming the world's only "billionaire" trade mark. Steel, however, was put forward when it was not true. A few years ago John D. Rockefeller, Jr., told me sincerely that his father's fortune would not anywhere near a billion dollars. How much the Rockefeller fortunes expanded during recent years I don't know. If all the stock noted, however, that Jonn D. Rockefeller, Sr., has been investing a very large part of his property to his only son.

* * *

We do not yet have any billion dollar bank, but the National City Bank of New York is nearing the mark. Its deposits exceed $600,000,000, while its aggregate resources are in excess of $864,000,000. Judging by the progress it has been making, it will enter the billion-dollar class before very long.

* * *

In short, the United States is becoming a "billion-dollar" country. It is, of course, the only "billion-dollar" country on the face of the earth.

* * *

Yes, businesswise we are citizens of no mean country.

COTTON MILLS' EXPANSION IS DISCUSSED

Dismissing the country's third largest industry, the National Bank of Commerce in New York says:

"Recent purchases of Southern mills by New England interests and more especially the actual transfer of complete mill equipment from the North to the South, have emphasized the acceleration of a movement which has been under way since at least the beginning of the century. The tendency for cotton manufacturing to make larger gains in the cotton-growing States than elsewhere in the United States is partially due to greater accessibility to the raw material, but more important than this has been lower taxation and cheaper labor costs.

"Not only are the wage scales lower in the South, due partially to lower costs of living and partially to less industrial competition for labor, but the working hours are longer. The change may in fact be identified as one of a worldwide movement of the cotton textile industry to seek locations where lower labor costs prevail.

"Southern mills' wage scale is lower than in the North where, however, less is done toward supplying cheap housing facilities. Referring to the efforts to shorten the working day, the article points to substantial changes in the industry along this line since 1909, and says:

"So far the movement toward shorter hours, recognizable in both sections of the industry, has made much the more rapid advance in the North. Here the usual hours in 1909 were from 54 to 60 hours a week. In 1914 they were 54 hours and in 1919 the prevailing hours had dropped to 48 a week or less. Southern mills have kept to 55 and 60 hours a week in 1909, although many worked even longer hours. By 1919 most of them worked 60 hours and but few worked longer, while the usual hours in the South were between 54 and 60 hours."

COTTON MILLS IN SOUTH ARE ACTIVE

Atlanta, Ga., May 29.—Cotton mills in this city and vicinity continue full time operation. A majority is sold ahead through the Summer, some into early Fall.

Recent sales of Exposition Cotton Mills said there was no curtailment here during recent severe decline. Mills are running through to middle of July, and he expects capacity operation to continue, with big increase in business now that cotton has declined to an apparently definite upward trend.

REAL ESTATE HAPPENINGS

Work will be begun about June 7 on a new one-story bank building to be erected by the Waverly Co-Operative Bank on Church Street, Waverly, which will be used exclusively as business quarters for this rapidly growing institution. The cost will be over $25,000.

The building will incorporate the newest ideas in construction and bank equipment. The contract has been awarded to Samuel Alcock. The plans were prepared by H. Thaxter Underwood. The exterior will be of water struck brick.

Irving F. Monroe, treasurer of the Waverly Co-Operative Bank, has held the position for twenty-six years, and to his energetic efforts is largely attributed the success which the bank has enjoyed.

While Prepared for War, Let Us Strive for Peace

Tomorrow is Memorial Day. It is a day which is publicly dedicated to the memory of those who are gone from us among the great armies that fought for us in six wars.

It is extraordinary that there should yet be living, men who have spanned the years covering four of those six years.

While we mourn the dead we ought to consider this fact—that within the life of a man we have fought four wars. And we ought to dedicate ourselves anew every Decoration Day to the solemn resolution that we shall never be unprepared for war and that we shall never abate our efforts to make war impossible.

Various Things

Talking Too Much, Etc.

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Doctor Nicholas Murray Butler is distressed, with reason, at the amount of talk that goes on in the United States. But he is mistaken when he tells a British audience that our talking "keeps the doing classes from displaying their ability."

Real "doers of the word" are not kept from "doing" by anybody else's talking, and even despised talkers have their value. They stir up ideas. A "doer" fastens on to one idea and makes reality of it.

Before the "doers" of the French Revolution laid the foundation of the magnificent French Republic, and wiped out the rotten old monarchial system, many talkers were busy, and necessary. Voltaire was one of the greatest talkers. But, as somebody has said, the French revolution was the last volume of his many volumes. He proved himself a "doer" also, as you may know by looking up the Calas case.

It was believed that nothing but sisal hemp, produced in Mexico, would do for binding twine in wheat fields, because grasshoppers eat every other kind of twine. That gave sisal men a monopoly.

Now the scientists find that the grasshoppers leave the sisal hemp alone because the leaves are soaked in ordinary fresh water. Other kinds are soaked in salt water. Grasshoppers eat twine for the sake of the salt, and would eat Mexican hemp also if it were dipped in salt water. Soak Manila hemp in fresh water and the trust will be broken up, because grasshoppers won't eat it. This shows that all kinds of knowledge may be useful.

Dining with his learned and able friend, Colonel William Boyce Thompson, that well-known New York philosopher, E. Clarence Jones, remarked, "They'll easily settle that question of liquor for crews on foreign ships. Our laws say doctors can prescribe as much liquor as they like. Doctors on the foreign ships will prescribe for the crews. That will be legal and ought to settle it."

Sure enough, now comes the announcement that the State Department sees the solution of the ruling against liquor on foreign ships in our ports, through doctors' prescriptions.

A simple settlement. A way can be found, if you want to find it.

The Kaiser dreamed of a "Berlin to Bagdad" railroad, with the German Empire expanding toward the East, also North, South and West. Now England owns the Bagdad railroad, and Germany is said to be mourning because it has "passed forever into the hands of the enemy."

Forever is too long a word. A hundred years may see the British Empire broken up and the Bagdad railroad handled by Russians, or by Asiatics, or by France if she decides that she wants it and builds flying machines enough to fight for it.

Nothing is "FOREVER," and that's what makes life interesting.

Mrs. John Lanigan lived with her husband and gave him thirteen children. After that he left her, and recently squandered $6,200, paid to one of their children by a railroad that cut off the child's leg. On the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding she sent her fourteen-year-old daughter to ask the father for a little money to take care of the family.

He beat the girl. Mrs. Lanigan went around then and killed him. What do you think a jury will do to Mrs. Lanigan?

Keep Out of Asia

Europe Is Bad Enough Just Now

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The capturing by bandits of many travelers in China should impress upon the public the fact that this is no time to go traveling in Asia "for pleasure." The world is in a bad condition following the war, when everybody who had to kill somebody else was a hero.

To hundreds of millions of Asiatics a white man or white woman is something to despise. The same is true of a yellow man or woman to hundreds of millions of ignorant white people.

Let Americans travel in Europe if they feel it necessary. Over there Americans are only hated, they are not kidnaped. Keep out of Asia for the present.

OLD NOTES OF U. S. FOUND

CANTON, O., May 29.—Three hundred dollars in United States notes, a century and a third old, were found in the heart of an old oak tree by Harry Smith and James McGhee, when they cut down the aged monarch of the forest recently.

The money is believed to have been hidden away by army couriers when hard pressed by Indian foes. The notes crumpled into dust, although a fragment, showing the date of the bills—1790—remained.

Poor Car Service

Editor Boston American:

Why doesn't the Boston Elevated make some effort to improve service on the Lake street-Commonwealth avenue line? Although 99 per cent of the passengers who ride on this line pay 10-cent fares, they are given much worse service than those who travel on the five-cent line that plies between Allston and Dudley street terminal. I have waited fifteen minutes for an inbound Commonwealth avenue car, while half a dozen or more on the five-cent Allston-Dudley street line went by. Isn't it somebody's business to correct such matters?

CHARLES SALISBURY.

More Benches Needed

Editor Boston American:

Would it not be a good idea for the park department officials to place more seats in Franklin Park? I have seen many middle-aged and old men and women trying, without success, to sit comfortably on the ground. Would it not also be a good idea to place benches on which the people could spread their lunches, instead of laying them on the ground for insects to walk over? These improvements would be welcomed by the people who use this glorious park.

Hard Struggle

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a young mother of two little girls, eight and eleven. I cannot explain what my life has been for the last four years. I have been sick since my last baby was born four years ago. My husband deserted me on the day my baby was born, and I have had to struggle along alone since then. Now I have to give up work, as I have had a nervous breakdown. I work two or three or four days a week, sometimes leaving home without food so that the children may have some. I know some kind reader will have some kind of clothing which they are going to discard, which I would be glad to make over. I wear size 36 or 38, and 5½ shoes. The children wear size 9 and 1½ shoes.

MRS. M. B. 3.

For Needy Family

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you kindly put me in touch with some needy family. I have a few clothes, as shown in the enclosed list, I would like to give them.

MRS. C. H. N.

You have been sent the address of Mrs. M. D., who will greatly appreciate the things you mention. Thank you.

Shoes and Clothing

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some shoes, size 5, and some clothing to fit a girl from twelve to sixteen years. If someone would call I would be glad to give them.

M. W.

Your kind offer has been forwarded to Mrs. E. W., who has girls fifteen and thirteen in need of clothes. Thank you.

Clothing for Girl

Editor Helping Hand:

I read of L. E. F.'s appeal. If the child is a girl, I have a coat, hat, dresses, etc., she may gladly have. If she has been supplied, send me the name of someone else. I also have clothes for a six-weeks-old youngster.

MRS. B. E. B.

L. E. F. has been supplied. You will be sent the address of M. B. D., who has children of those ages.

Young Man Needs Suit

Editor Helping Hand:

Has anyone a suit for a young man about nineteen, size 34, and some shirts, size 14? I would be willing to do something to earn them, as at present I am only making ten dollars a week and have to pay board, which is eight dollars, as I have no home.

A. A.

More Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have clothes on hand and shall be glad to give them to anyone able to use them.

B. K.

Many thanks. You will be sent the address of Mrs. P. M., who has a boy nine, and of Mrs. C. S. P., who has a boy seventeen.

Offers Baby Carriage

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the address of some American family who could make use of a baby carriage, as I have one they could gladly have.

MRS. J. M. 2.

There are many calls for carriages. You will be sent the address of Mrs. J. F., who is badly in need of a carriage for a new baby. Many thanks.

Baby Clothes to Give

Editor Helping Hand:

I want to thank you for sending me the address of R. S. She helped me out finely in sending me clothing for my three-year-old boy. I would have written you before, but I have been very sick. If you will send me the address of a prospective mother, I will send her some baby clothes. I haven't many, but they will help out a bit.

MRS. W. J. M.

Thank you. You will be sent the address of Mrs. R. M., who needs baby clothes.

Very Grateful

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing you a few lines, and I wish you would put it in your paper as soon as you can. I can't find words to thank the people that have sent me the baby clothes and other things. So I thought that if you would only print this they would all see it. May God bless them all. Their names will be in my safe-keeping when the stork brings my new baby, and I will think of them first.

MRS. D. E. K.

Suits for Boys

Editor Helping Hand:

I have five or six wash suits and other clothing for boys of three and four.

F. E.

Thank you. You have been sent the addresses of M. K., who has a boy three, and of Mrs. G. H. P., who has a boy four.

Offers Bassinette

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a baby's bassinette in good condition which I shall be pleased to give to a needy mother if someone will call for it soon, as I am going away.

(Boston.) MRS. H. J. N.

We have had many requests for bassinettes, but have none on file now. May we keep your kind offer for replies for a day or two? Thank you.

Children Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a young mother with three small children and am in very bad circumstances. I have spent every dollar saved for doctor's bills and still have a balance of $58 unpaid and am threatened with a summons to appear in the Poor Debtors' Court unless it is paid at once. My husband's pay is very small, and most of it goes to feed and clothe the children and paying the debts. At present I am under quarantine, which will be removed any day now. All the children were very sick for six weeks, and now they will be able to get out in the fresh air, but they have no clothes nor shoes to wear. What I need is blouses for boy eight and shoes size 10, suits and shoes for a four-year boy, shoes 6½, coat for baby two and shoes size 4. I would also like a dress size 36 or 38 for myself and working pants, size 18 years, for my husband, who is small.

MRS. C. E. H.

MR. LAWSON PICKS UP HIS FALLEN LANCE

By Herbert Kaufman

THE shades of De Soto and La Salle are pinching themselves this afternoon. More astounding news never reached the Styx than word of Lieutenant Croker's Gulf-to-Canada flight.

In their day it took three years to travel from one end of the Mississippi River to the other. Croker, leaving Houston, Texas, with two sandwiches and 240 gallons of gasoline, reaches the Great Lakes in eleven and a half hours.

Another high flyer, one Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, admitting the loss of a $30,000,000 fortune and $16,000,000 besides, within a space of ten years, says that he is back on his feet with debts paid and enough to spare for re-entrance to the lists of finances.

He informs Wall Street that he plans to take $10,000,000 out of the market this Fall. If he gets it he deserves it. Such a fulfilled confidence is quite worth the price to a country crowded with one-knockdown quitters.

Good News Which Could Be Better

These are hurryful days—except at council tables. United States' claims for Rhine occupation expense, after months of hair-splitting negotiations, have finally been settled.

Poincare is delighted at the happy outcome. We'd be more pleased to hear of some proposition to liquidate the $4,000,000,000 which France still owes us.

Washington hasn't even caught the chirp of interest on that vast tax-relieving sum.

President Harding's recent intimation that the next Congress would be advised to scale rates all down the line has not been followed by similar messages from the White House.

Mr. Mellon has meanwhile insisted that we'll have to stagger along indefinitely under present imposts. Party platform builders will probably change his mind for him. Votes promise to have a sharp ear for economy pledges next year.

Will Ford Head a New Ticket?

A correspondent of the New York Times wires from New Orleans that William Randolph Hearst is ready to support Henry Ford as an Independent.

If backed by the enormous influence of Hearst publications with their millions of readers at pivotal points throughout the United States, sentiment for Ford, already permeating South and Middle West, would be a practicably insurmountable barrier to any rival candidate.

Family rows and apparently irreconcilable factions have so disorganized present parties that a third ticket, popularly headed, stands an unparalleled chance to win the field.

There's less interest hereabouts in leagues and world courts than myopic statesmen and their purblind advisers think.

We've a home job that needs all the attention local wits and wills can devote to the task.

Our first obligation is to retain leadership in the production of raw materials and manufactures.

The greatest industrialist of history appeals to the imagination of multitudes as the most competent preserver of the traditions and policies in which their prosperity is rooted.

You never can tell where a flivver or its maker will land.

Shifting Clouds Over Europe

One more war cloud purges itself and leaves the Near East, after many years, under serene skies. Turkey and Greece suddenly compose their differences. Athens acknowledges liability for reparations; Constantinople, emerging from the negotiations with saved face, gallantly forgives the debt, but takes title to debated districts and railroads.

Lausanne delegates breathe a prayer of thanks and expectantly return to less tough muttons.

Diplomacy, however, continues to pursue futile paths through the Ruhr imbroglio.

The Communist strike, as predicted, spreads through the region. Three hundred thousand workers disregard the advice of German unions and gather under the Red flag.

Moscow Goes Mischief-Making

Moscow mischief makers are reputed everywhere with schemes and funds. An uprising of immeasurable extent is in brew.

Berlin expresses fear lest hunger and hate conspire with Russian war plots to throw Central Europe masses into the arms of Bolshevism.

Paris discounts the menace and perceives possible advantages from the situation.

Fear of anarchy may force the Fatherland to make choice of two desperate problems and conclude satisfactory terms with the allies.

Schlageter, moving spirit behind the gangs of terrorists in occupied territory, and confessed associate of criminals, owns to responsibility for the destruction of bridges and transportation systems, is convicted by court-martial and summarily executed.

The Rhine has not seen the last of violence and bloodshed. God help the world if reason does not soon control obdurate ministries.

Kindling for Faith

Two physicians at the Wisconsin Psychiatric Hospital dissipate the gloom from thousands of stricken homes by forecasting the eventual cure of all paretics. Four years of experiment on patients suffering from this hitherto hopeless cause of insanity encourage them to believe that tryparsamid, a new drug, is a successful specific for paresis and locomotor ataxia.

Why do the sons of Adam waste strength, intelligence and wealth on profitless feuds instead of combining wisdom and resources against disease and distress?

Experience weeps at the disregard of man's obvious destiny to conquer all forces through enlightenment.

And yet with multitude evidences of that divine purpose, races seem no further from primeval instincts than the family tabby, which just leaped at the throat of an adoring mistress, tore at her hands and feet, and drove her to hiding, as savage progenitors attacked jungle folk.

There are moments when one doubts any fundamental alterations in human or any other nature. Then the whir of an airship or the sight of a hospital rekindles faith and sets optimism boiling anew.
